JUNE DINNER AND DISCUSSION EVENT SUMMARY

BY DAWN WORMAN

Indiana University East was the host site of the Indiana League for Nursing's (ILN) June Dinner and Discussion. Attendees enjoyed a taco bar to begin the evening before moving into the auditorium for the announcement of scholarship winners and an expert panel discussion. ILN President Susan Seibert welcomed attendees and reported the ILN had retained full affiliate status with the National League for Nursing (NLN).

Attendees were informed that the ILN was able to provide $2500.00 worth of scholarships this year. The winners were: Katie Upton, MSN student at the University of Southern Indiana, Derrick Garletts, DNP student at the University of Southern Indiana, and Sarah Wallace, PhD student at the University of Northern Colorado.

Karen Clark served as moderator for the evening's main event, the panel discussion on Faculty Workload in Nursing Education. The expert panel was comprised of varied universities and degree programs. Nursing educators serving on the panel were: Heather Wierzbinski-Cross (Ivy Tech Richmond), Bridget Whitmore (IU Kokomo), and Deb Sipes-Fears (IUPUI). The panel discussed best practices to support nursing faculty, described FTE calculations and faculty workload, discussed the institutional differences regarding clinical and tenure track, and explored opportunities for joint appointments with healthcare organizations. The panel design facilitated rich dialogue between the panel and the audience.

Following the panel discussion, the ILN Board Meeting was held with attendees of the evening's events invited to remain to learn more about the ILN. Photos of the event and scholarship winners appear in this edition of the newsletter.
